Distinguished Scholar Award Nomination Information

Members of the International Studies Association are invited to nominate a candidate for the Religion & International Relations' Distinguished Scholar Award.

This award recognizes scholars who have a substantial and demonstrable record of publishing and service in the field of Religion and International Studies, and preferably scholars who have a history of ISA attendance.

When making a nomination, please ensure that the nominee agrees to the nomination and they are available to attend next year's ISA, should they be offered the award. Recipients must be current members of ISA. The Religion & International Relations section will organize a panel comprised of the Distinguished Scholar awardee and other eminent scholars to honor the Distinguished Scholar. The recipient will receive a plaque at the awards presentations at the annual Religion and International Studies reception. Past recipients are Douglas Johnston (2015), Jeffrey Haynes (2016), Jonathan Fox (2017), Mark Juergensmeyer (2018), Scott Appleby (2019), Jocelyn Cesari (2020), and Daniel Philpott (2021).

To make a nomination, please provide the following:

- Name, affiliation and email address of Nominator
- Name, affiliation and email address of Nominee
- CV of Nominee
- Describe the importance of this scholar's research in making a significant contribution in the field of religion and international studies

Nominations should be sent to the Committee Chair:

Ron Hassner (hassner@berkeley.edu) by May 31, 2021 for consideration by the selection committee. Members of the ISA who are not currently Religion & International Relations members are encouraged to join the Religion & International Relations section ($5 fee annual fee salaried members, $3 for students).
